Some months ago, I unveiled a painting entitled THE LIGHT OF FREEDOM which portrayed a dramatic American flag unfurled over the New York City skyline. Old Glory symbolizes, for me, the indomitable American spirit, the passion for freedom, the pride and the abundant blessings that have characterized our nation. The response to the painting was gratifying. Not only was the piece extremely popular as a symbol of patriotism, but a special charitable edition helped raise $1.5 million for relief efforts sponsored by The Salvation Army. I was also intrigued to discover that many collectors asked if I could create a reinterpretation of this painting celebrating other American cities. The idea stuck with me, and has now inspired a brand new collection of works which I am calling "Flags Over America."

AMERICA'S PRIDE, the first piece in my new "Flags Over America" collection, features the same dramatic sky and waving flag seen in my previous painting, while below I pay tribute to the most patriotic of all American cities – our nation's capital. In my painting, I have depicted the Washington, D.C. skyline with lights glittering as evening approaches. The Capitol Building is illuminated, as is the Washington Monument, while cherry blossoms catch the last rays of sunlight in the foreground. I hope to pay tribute to other cities in the future (including Chicago, San Francisco and Seattle) but there is no doubt that for all citizens of the United States, our nation's capital truly is AMERICA'S PRIDE.
